Custom Common Guide

The Basics

The common/default folder holds all the images that show on the setup screens and during gameplay on the field and the display. These images include goal posts, chain gang, scoreboard logos, and more.

One of the cool things you can do now since the common has been made selectable before ANY game is create individual ones with edited scoreboard logos that you can load before a game if you want a game to be on a specific network or maybe a Monday Night Football game for example.

All you need to put in the separate folder is the scoreboard logos you want. In the images I have displayed here, I created a folder under my leagues common called ABC 65_79

I prefer the regular scoreboards, so I don't need the box scoreboard, but you can place them both in this folder if you like to jump back and forth. The type of scoreboard you use is selected in the "Game Settings", so that isn't a league specific setting.

On the game setup/pregame screen like below, the image shown between the team helmets is taken from the scoreboard_logo.png, which is the regular scoreboard image. This is based on the common folder that is the default under your leagues images folder.

I want this game to be an ABC game, so I will click the Customize button.

Now click the "Artwork" button, NOT "Game Setup" like I do every stinkin time like I have some sort of twitch or tic at that exact moment.

The Common is currently set to "Default" as it should be. Click to change it.

I had already created the extra folder under my leagues common and it shows up here. It contains my edited scoreboard_logo.png. Select your new folder.

Ta Daa!

Now the Boston Tigers at New York Eagles is an ABC game, and in the snow. Namath wore nylons in cold weather, so you babies can too!!!!

Where the folder would be

Below is my folder structure for the GFL. Any special folder you want to create, put them under your leagues common like below.
Don't put them IN the default, just in addition to it under the common.

You don't need to move any of the other stuff from your default common. The game will load whatever is in your new common, and whatever it can't find it will fall back to the default and get those items.

In closing......

The game does remember this so when you go back to watch highlights you will see this logo.

Also, this is only recognized for the game you made the change, it doesn't affect any other games or change the default setting.

Is it a bit fiddly, and are you required to not forget, yes.
But all I know is when I see a logo during a game, I hear the voices.
Howard Cosell, Enberg and Olsen, Summerall and Madden.
